

This is a picture of me, as well as my mother and stepfather, when I gave a presentation at Mass Bay on 10/29/2008 on my book, NLD From The Inside Out. The news brief, emailed to Mass Bay Alumni and staff, reads as follows:

NEWS AND NOTES

FEATURED BANNER ART: Alumni returns to MassBay for book reading

DISABILITY AWARENESS MONTH PROFILE

MassBay joined many around the country in celebrating October as Disability Awareness Month. The Department of Learning Accommodations/Services for Students with Disabilities and the entire MassBay Learning Community recognized the importance of celebrating October as National Disability Awareness Month with a keynote event at the end of the month.

On October 29, MassBay welcomed back Michael Murphy, who graduated summa cum laude with an associate of arts degree. Murphy talked about nonverbal learning disorders and his new book "NLD From the Inside Out." After MassBay, he earned a bachelor's degree cum laude in psychology from Clark University and is currently studying for a master's degree in Jewish Studies at Hebrew College.

In the featured banner art above, Murphy (center) put on a presentation with readings from his book to a standing room only audience in the Library Atrium.
